By Associated Press

THREE HUNDRED FROM CAROLINA LANDED.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 4.—Three hundred of the passengers and crew of the torpedoed steamship Carolina were picked up at sea in open boats by the schooner Etta B. Douglass. The schooner anchored at an inlet at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon apparently awaiting orders regarding the disposition of the shipwrecked cargo.

In addition seven members of the crew were landed at an inlet wharf by a coastguard life-boat. They consisted of Martin Carroll of Newark, N. J., and six Porto Ricans. The men tarried long enough to say they "had a tough time" and then they were whisked off to the coast guard station where they were supplied with much needed food.

MALLOTT LATER CHASED.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 4.—The MalloTT liner Sabine, from Tampa to New York with 10 passengers, came in here today and reported that she met a submarine yesterday between Charleston and Frying Pan shoals lightship. Another vessel came to the rescue of the liner and chased the submarine out to sea.

MAY BE SUPER-SUBMARINES.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 4.—Captain Kenneth B. Lowry of the Texel is convinced that his ship was sunk by one of the new German submarine cruisers and that it crossed the Atlantic and did not come from a base on this side of the Atlantic. Information dropped during a conversation with the German commander to whom Captain Lowry surrendered leads him to that belief. A piece of shell picked up in the engine room indicated the engineer said that the submarine carried at least six-inch guns.

NEW YORK June 4.—Evidence that the German submarines that attacked the New York & Porto Rico liner Carolina shelled her life-boats was brought here today by a British liner from West Indian ports.

The ship reported that she had picked up at 4 p. m. yesterday Cape May an empty motor life-boat belonging to the Carolina damaged by shell fire.

The hull of the motorboat had been pierced by the fire of U-boat's guns. One of only three oars found in the boat had splintered in a way that indicated the use of a machine

A boat from the steamship Carolina containing 19 survivors including two women has landed at Lewes, Del. News reached here today that an American tanker damaged result of a fight with a German submarine off the American coast had arrived at an Atlantic port. Naval tugs picked up the vessel at sea and towed her in. Details were withheld the time.

CITY OF COLUMBUS IN PORT.

AN ATLANTIC PORT June 4.—While the City of Columbus was anchored some distance from shore there was no news that she had been damaged by submarines at the time she came into the harbor. It had not been known here that she had been reported sunk. No boat had come ashore half an hour after the ship's arrival. The City of Columbus had been at anchor some time before her identity was discovered. The el entered the harbor shortly after the arrival of a ship at the Merchants & Miners Transportation company shed here and the fact that no message was immediately sent was taken to mean that the vessel merely had sought ge and that all was well aboard.

RETURN TO BASE, OFFICIALS BELIEVE.

HORRORS OF WAR WROUGHT BY THE GERMANS SHOWN

Large Audience Hears Red Cross-Navy League Lecture at High School.

GERMAN PLANS EXPOSED

By Great Railway System Kaiser Can Transport Over Million Troops From East to West or Vice Versa in Single Day, the Lecturer Shows.

The large auditorium at the high school last night was well filled for the lecture on "Wake Up America" by J. H. Dowling, showing the actual war conditions in Europe with stereopticon slides and moving pictures. The horrors of invasion were brought home to the audience to show that America could not live in a feeling of security and that sacrifice and concentrated energy only would win the war.

The stereopticon views showed that Germany inaugurated a propaganda for the war 10 years ago and that the training of the Kaiser from youth was with a view to have him lead the armies of Germany to conquest. A map of German lines running from border to border built more for military than commercial purposes over which Germany can transport 1,000,000 troops from the east to the west in a single day was shown.

Scenes taken in Belgium were flashed on the screen. The invasion of Belgium can be told only behind closed doors said the lecturer. A slide bearing the words: "One method of subduing Belgium is to have the Belgian women bear German boys" was shown the lecturer saying that the words were copied from orders on captured German officers. "I was only due to the unexpected resistance of the little Belgian army that the Germans did not eat their Christmas dinner in Paris continued the speaker and now no German will ever eat his Christmas dinner there."

"There are only two kinds of people in this country said Mr. Dowling. They are the 100 per cent American and the traitor. The latter should be backed up against a wall or left to dangle at the end of a rope. The Kaiser wants peace all right but one made in Germany and then in 1919 two Germans would again march forth twice as strong as at present. The present danger lies in the Allies being to German make peace proposals. The only peace talk to listen to is that which comes from Washington D. C. and a lasting peace can never be had until militarism is banished forever."

The navy has increased three times said Dowling and stands second in the world. Before the war is over America's navy will outclass England's.

Speaking of the sacrifice necessary of the lecturer said the noblest creature of God is the woman who can send her husband or son away with a smile to fight the battle of righteousness. The moving pictures consisted of scenes of devastation aimed in French towns through which the German armies passed. The American soldiers a training were also exhibited and a new after wave of applause echoed through the auditorium when the khaki clad troops appeared.

The audience sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" Over there keep the Home Fires Burning and The Star Spangled Banner when the words were flashed on the screen. The lecture and pictures were so well received that the Red Cross and Navy League which are working in harmony here for the better prosecution of the war.

The wheel was rubber tired and three years ago was worth $20. Hawkins said he thought it would be worth $25 at this time. Franco said the horse broke the buggy into the car just as he was passing and he could not avoid the accident. He never stopped his machine to see what damage had been done however.

REPORTS OF EXCESS PROFITS TAX ARE TO BE CHECKED UP

An Investigation of Coal Company's Records is Now Under Way.

REVENUE EXPERTS ON JOB

Attempt to Defraud is Not Implied but All the Same the Department Wants to Know if Uncle Sam is Getting All That is Coming to Him Under Law.

Excess profits either purposely concealed or unintentionally inaccurately reported by the coal operators of Pennsylvania Ohio and West Virginia are to be made the objective of a big drive inaugurated by the Department of Internal Revenue with a view to ascertaining whether any revision in the reports as filed should be made. Yesterday 25 trained accountants were dispatched to the territories mentioned tested with full power and authority to examine the books and records of all coal producing companies for the purpose of comparing the reports that have been filed with the information this investigation may reveal.

This close scrutiny of books has not been determined because of a suspicion that some of the reports have not correctly represented the facts they purport to give the revenue authorities state but because of the belief that errors have been made in compiling the reports. So far as explanation has been made it would appear that this examination is not to be taken as an implication of any part of the excess profits tax required to be made but that it is a precaution against errors which might deprive the government of revenue.

As soon as the examinations of the Pennsylvania Ohio and West Virginia fields have been completed the revenue will be sent to check practically the entire coal production industry to a "searcher" investigation of its records. At the same time examinations will be made soon of wool manufacturers cotton manufacturers metal mining industries munition makers and oil producers. These industries are selected for special examination because they showed extraordinary large profits since the war began the internal revenue bureau explained.

As at present on hand an intensive campaign against willful violators of the excess profits tax law will be started about July 1. No weeks after the tax payments have become due.

"HER AMERICAN HUSBAND"—A five-part Tri-ling photo play, directed by E. Mason Hopper, and featuring Teddy Sampson, is being presented today. It is the story of the Japanese girl who marries an American, only to find herself deserted after the novelty of her quaint ways and object devotion have worn off. Unlike the heroine in "Madame Butterfly," Mrs. Cherry Blossom Franklyn is not left in her native land to await her husband's return, but accompanies him to America. She sees but little of the man she married, however, when he is among his friends of both sexes, and her child dies while his father is engaged in one of his old time revels. The unfaithful husband is strangled to death and his widow returns to Japan with her father and the old lover who avenged her. The Universal Weekly is also included in the program. Wednesday, Zoo Rae, the wonderful child actress, will be seen in "Danger Within," a five-part Bluebird feature. Thursday, Ethel Clayton and a splendid supporting company will be seen in "Journey's End," a delightful romance occurring at the seashore, Florida. INCREASE IN PHONE RATES

Post cards are being mailed today to the subscribers of the Tri-State Telephone company announcing increases in rates for all classes of service, effective July 1. The new schedule of tariffs has been filed with the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg and sets forth in detail the price changes involved. Summarized these are as follows:

Unlimited or free county service for all subscribers in the 17 different exchanges for business phones will be increased to $2.50 per month from $3.00. For a 3-party line the new rate will be $2 and for a 4-party line it will be $2.50, the increase in each case being 50 cents per month.

The same unlimited service to all Tri-State subscribers for residence phones will be increased to $2.50 per month from $2. For a 2-party line the new rate will be $2 and for a 4-party line it will be $2.75, the increase in each case being 25 cents per month.

For local service only, which means free and unlimited class to all subscribers in the same exchange, with toll charges for calls elsewhere, the rate for business phones will be increased to $2.50 from $2. For party lines the new rate will be $2, an increase of 25 cents a month from the present charge of $1.75.

For local service only, for residence phones the new rate will be $2 for a private line, an increase of 50 cents, and for a party line it will be $1.50, an increase of 25 cents.

This local service applies to the exchanges at Uniontown, Connellsville, Brownsville and Scottdale. For the other exchanges the increases are not quite so large, being in proportion to the present lesser rentals.

These increases have been literally forced on the Tri-State company. For the past three or four years, cost prices of every kind have been steadily advancing. In some details the increase has been 40 per cent, in others as high as 75 per cent. Material has advanced, rent has advanced and labor has advanced. For the inspection of a Courier man, the pay roll cards of the past four years of the entire Tri-State list of employees were thrown open. From several cards selected at random it was found that wage increases figure from 43 per cent to 55 per cent.

For the past two years the Tri-State company has paid no dividends. The directors were so loathe to increase rentals that they willingly passed the dividend to return all the profits of the business to betterment of the service. But the recent and continuing sharp advances have left no other recourse. Practically every other public utility has made advances, the most recent to command local attention being the West Penn railways. A 20 per cent advance in fares is now in force on this big trolley system, which is a greater advance than that of the Tri-State Telephone company.

The storm of the past winter forced the company to expenditures aggregating several hundred thousand dollars. Thirty-three thousand feet of new copper wire was used on the lines from Uniontown to Connellsville alone, with other repairs in proportion. In every instance repairs were made with the idea of making the new lines better than ever before in the past.

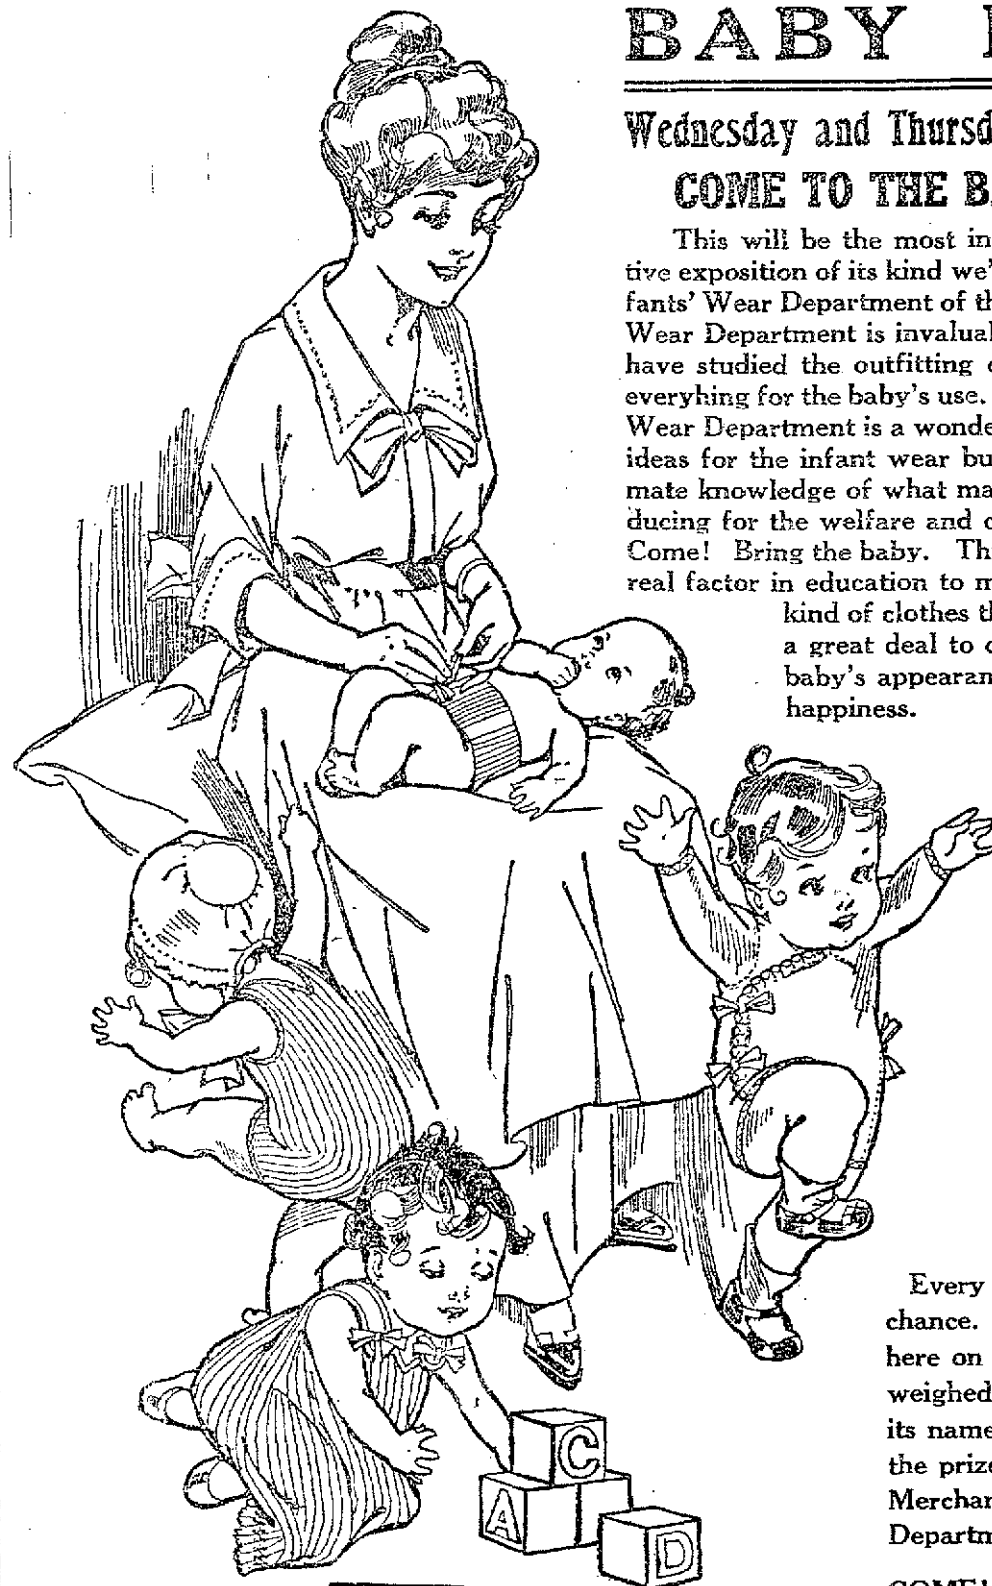

The Tri-State company is doing its utmost to give better service and with the new tariff in force in another month it hopes to still further improve the local and county telephone system. The advance in prices was avoided as long as possible. It has been made only when business could no longer be continued at the old rates.—Adv.—J. St.

ROARING RUN RESORT POPULAR

Presbyterians Prepare for Annual Outing Season There; Grocers and
Meat Dealers to Close Wednesday
Afternoons During Summer Season.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTSDALE, June 4.—At a meeting of the Ministerial Association yesterday morning it was decided that the stranger to Scottdale should enjoy the churches of the town and know what churches there were and where they were located. With this in view it was decided to put a directory of the churches in each hotel in town. The ministers decided on an exchange of pulpits in July.

Ready for Outing Season.

The summer home of the First Presbyterian church at Roaring Run is being gotten into shape for the season, which opens June 18 and will continue until September 1. The home has been enlarged by an addition, 21x20, opening onto the dining room, and a kitchen, 14x14, connected to the dining room by a 5x6 hallway. One bungalow, 12x14, has been completed and a second one has been started. One new tent has been purchased and another bungalow will be built before July. Mrs. Ida F. Parker will have charge of each crowd. From 40 to 50 persons can be accommodated at each time. While there are some open dates, this summer home conducted by the church has proved so popular that almost every date is filled.

Close Wednesday Afternoons.

Beginning with Wednesday afternoon local grocers and butchers will close their shops each Wednesday afternoon during June, July and August. This is very much appreciated by the clerks and proved very popular among them last summer.

Engine House Crew Bought Flag.

The flag raised at Evera last week by railroad men was not purchased by members of a train crew but by the engine house force of the Pennsylvania Railroad company at Evera, according to a communication to The Courier.

Funeral Services for Late John S. Parker.

Funeral services for the late John S. Parker will be held from his late home in Loucks avenue on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral services will be in charge of the Rev. J. E. Hutchinson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Undergoes Operation.

Eugene Nicowonger, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Nicowonger of Jennings avenue, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Mount Pleasant hospital on Sunday.

William Fetter Graduates.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Fetter were at the University of Pittsburgh on Friday where their son William graduated.

BUSY BUSINESS MEN

Science Helps Them Out After Recently Announcing the Stomach.

The most reckless man in regard to health is the busy business man. At noon he rushes out for a bite to eat. He bolts his food without proper mastication, and hangs on his stomach an extra burden greater than it is able to carry without breaking down.

His overworked stomach is crying for help; it appeals to him for relief in various ways: Eructation of sour gas, waterbrash, sour taste in mouth, heaviness after eating, shortness of breath, bad breath, etc.

One M-O-N-A tablet taken with or after each meal will help any sufferer from dyspepsia wonderfully. It aids the stomach in the work of digestion which it must perform.

M-O-N-A tablets are sold by A. A. Clarke with a rigid guarantee to overcome dyspepsia and all stomach troubles, or money back. They make eating a pleasure.

M-O-N-A cleanses and purifies the stomach and bowels and puts vigor and strength into the overworked tissues. It is the surest stomach tonic in the world.

PETEY DINK—Now Mabel Can Arrest Him for Assault and Battery

OUTWITTING THE HUN

By LIEUTENANT
PAT O'BRIEN

Copyright by PAT O'BRIEN

I traveled rapidly, considering my difficulties, and swam a couple of canals that night, covering in all perhaps ten miles before daylight. Then I located in some low bushes, lying there all day in my wet clothes and finishing my sausage for food. That was the last of my rations.

That night I made perhaps the same distance, but became very hungry and thirsty before the night was over.

"I Found Myself Right in a German Back Yard."

For the next six days I still figured that I was in Germany, and I was living on nothing but cabbage, sugar beets and an occasional carrot, always in the raw state just as I got them out of the fields. The water I drank was often very rank. One night I lay in a cabbage patch for an hour lapping the dew from the leaves with my tongue!

During this period I realized that I must avoid meeting anyone at all hazards. I was in the enemy's country and my uniform would have been a dead giveaway. Anyone who captured me or who gave information from which my capture resulted might have been sure of a handsome reward. I knew that it was necessary for me to make progress as fast as possible, but the main consideration was to keep out of sight, even if it took me a year to get to Holland, which was my objective. From my map I estimated that I was about thirty-five miles from Strassburg when I made my leap from the train, and if I could travel in a straight line I had perhaps one hundred and fifty miles to travel. As it was, however, I was compelled to make many detours, and I figured that two hundred and fifty miles was nearer the extent of the journey ahead of me.

In several parts of this country I had to travel through forests of young pine trees about twelve feet high. They were very close together and looked almost as if they had been set out. They proved to be a serious obstacle to me because, I could not see the stars through them and I was relying upon the stars to guide me to freedom. I am not much of an astronomer, but I know the Pole Star when I see it. But for it I wouldn't be here today!

I believed it rained every night and day while I was making my way through Germany and Luxembourg. My inevitable program at this stage of my journey was to travel steadily all night until about six in the morning, when I would commence looking around for a place wherein to hide during the day. Low bushes or woods back from the road, as far as possible from the traveled pathway, usually served me for this purpose. Having found such a spot I would drop down and try to sleep. My overcoat was my only covering, and that was usually soaked through, either from the rain or from swimming.

The only sleep I got during those days was from exhaustion, and it usually came to me towards dusk when it was time for me to start again.

It was a mighty fortunate thing for me that I was not a smoker. Somehow I have never used tobacco in any form. I was now fully repaid for whatever pleasure I had foregone in the past as a result of my habits in that particular, because my sufferings would certainly have been intensified now if, in addition to lack of food and rest, I had had to endure a craving for tobacco.

About the sixth night I was so drowsy and exhausted when the time came for me to be on the move, that I was very much tempted to sleep through the night. I knew, however, that that would be a bad precedent to establish and I wouldn't give in.

I plunged wearily along and about 11 o'clock, after I had covered perhaps four miles, I sat down to rest for a moment on a shock of brush which was sheltered from the drizzle somewhat by other shocks which were stacked there. It was daylight when I awoke, and I found myself right in a German backyard. You can imagine that I lost no time in getting out of that neighborhood and I made up my mind right there and then that I would never give away to that "dread feeling" again.

In the daytime, in my hiding place, wherever it happened to be, I had plenty of opportunity to study my map, and before very long I knew it almost by heart. Unfortunately, however, it did not show all the rivers and canals which I encountered, and sometimes it fooled me completely.

It must have been about the ninth night that I crossed into Luxembourg, but though this principality is officially neutral, it offered me no safer a haven than Belgium would. The Hun has violated the neutrality of both, and discovery would have been followed by the same consequences as capture in Germany proper.

In the nine days I had covered perhaps seventy-five miles, and I was that much nearer liberty, but the lack of proper food, the constant wearing of wet clothes, and the loss of sleep and rest had reduced me to a very much weakened condition. I doubted very much whether I would be able to continue, but I plucked along.

CHAPTER VIII.

More Days in Luxembourg.
I was now heading northwest and I thought that by keeping that course I would get out of Luxembourg and into Belgium, where I expected to be a little better off, because the people of Luxembourg were practically the same as Germans.

One of the experiences I had in Luxembourg which I shall never forget occurred the first day that I spent there. I had traveled all night and I was feeling very weak. I came to a small wood with plenty of low underbrush, and picked out a thick clump of bushes which was not in line with any paths, crawled in and lay down to spend the day.

The sun could just reach me through an opening in the trees above and I took off all my clothes except my shirt and hung them on the bushes to dry in the sun. As the sun moved I moved the clothes around correspondingly, because tired as I was I could take only catnaps.

That afternoon I awoke from one of these naps with a start. There were voices not a dozen feet from me. My first impulse was to jump to my feet and sell my life as dearly as I could, but on second thought I decided to look before I leapt. Peeping through the underbrush I could just discern two men calmly chopping down a tree, and conversing as they worked. I thanked my lucky stars that I had not jumped up on my first impulse, for I was apparently quite safe as long as I lay where I was.

It then occurred to me that if the tree upon which they were working should happen to fall in my direction it would crush me to death! It was tall enough to reach me and big enough to kill me if it landed in my direction and as I could only see the heads of the men who were chopping it down, I was unable to tell which way they planned to have it fall.

There was this much in my favor; the chances of the tree falling in just the direction were not very great and there was more than an even chance that the men would be wise enough to fall it so that it would not, because if it landed in the bushes the task of trimming the branches from the trunk would be so much harder.

But even without this feeling of security, there was really nothing else I could do but wait and see what fate had in store for me. I lay there watching the top of the tree for more than an hour. Time and time again I saw it sway and fancied it was coming my direction, and it was all I could do to keep my place, but a moment later I would hear the crash of the men's axes, and I knew that my imagination had played me a trick.

I was running on the sorry plight I was in—weak, nearly starving to death, a refugee in a hostile country, and waiting patiently to fall, when there came a loud crack, and I saw the top of the tree sway and fall almost opposite to the place where I lay! I had guessed right.

Later I heard some children's voices and again peering through the underbrush I saw that they had brought the men their lunch. You can realize how I felt to see them eating their lunch so near at hand, and to know that I was hungry as I was, I could not help but go up to them and take a chance of getting a share. But I did not know whether they were Germans or not, and I had gone through too much to risk my liberty even for food. I swallowed my hunger instead.

Shortly afterwards it began to rain and about 4 o'clock the men left. I crawled out as fast as I could and scurried around looking for crumbs, but found none, and when darkness came I went on my way once more.

That night I came to a river and as it was the first time my clothes had been dry in a long time, I thought I would try to keep them that way as long as possible. I accordingly took off all my things and made them into two bundles, planning to carry one foot across and then swim back for the other.

The river was quite wide, but I am a fairly good swimmer and I figured I could rest awhile after the first trip before going back for the second bundle.

The first swim was uneventful. When I landed on the other side I drank till my thirst was quenched and then swam back. After resting awhile I started across a third time, with my shoes and several other things finally tied to my head. Just about ten feet from the opposite bank one of the shoes worked its way loose and sank in about eight feet of water. There was nothing to do but fetch the trip and then go back and dive for the missing shoe, as I could not go on with a single shoe.

Diving in my weakened condition was a considerable strain, but I had to have that shoe and I kept at it for nearly an hour before I eventually found it, and I was pretty nearly all in by that time.

That was the last time I ever took my shoes off, for my feet were becoming so swollen that I figured if I took my shoes off I might not be able to get them on again.

This stunt of crossing the river and diving for the lost shoe had consumed about three hours, and after reading some fifteen minutes I went on my way again. I had gone nearly a mile when I came to another river, about the same size as the one I had just crossed. I waited along the bank awhile, thinking I might be lucky enough to find a boat or a bridge, but after waiting about half an hour I decided to cross these disconcerting obstacles "come once in a lifetime." I found that this river was the one I had just swum. I had swum it on the bend and was still on the wrong side. Had I made only a short detour in the first place I would have avoided all the annoyance of the past three hours and saved my strength and time. I was never so mad in my life at myself as I was to think that I had not paid more attention to the course of the stream before I undertook to cross it, but as a matter of fact, there was really no way of telling. The river was not shown on the map at all.

Now I had to cross it, whereas before I could have turned it. I walked boldly into the water, not bothering to take my clothes off this time, nor did I ever bother to take them off afterwards when swimming canals and rivers. I found it was impossible to keep them dry anyway, and so I might just as well swim in them and save time.

All the next day I spent in a forest, to which my night's travel had brought me about 5 o'clock in the morning. I kept on my way through the woods until daylight came, and then, thinking the place would afford fairly good concealment, I concluded to rest until night.

The prospects of even a good sleep were dismal, however, for about the time the sun's face should have appeared, a drizzling rain began and I gave up my search for a dry spot which would serve me as a bed. Some of the leaves were beginning to fall, but of course there was not enough of them to form a covering for the ground, and the dampness seemed to have penetrated everywhere.

I wandered around through the woods for two or three hours looking for shelter, but without any success, for, though the trees were large, the forest was not dense, and there was practically no brush or shrubbery. Consequently one could get a fairly clear view for some distance, and I knew it would be unwise to drop off to sleep just any place, or someone would surely happen on to me.

Once I came very near to the ends of the woods and heard voices of men driving by in a wagon, but I couldn't make out just what they were, and instinct told me I had better not come out of the woods, so I turned back. There and three small artificial ditches had been dug which at a dry season might have emptied a weary traveler, but now they too, were filled with water. Once I started out I got big tree and large branches, and thought I might climb into it and go to sleep, but the longer I looked at it the more I realized that it would require more energy than I had in my present weak and exhausted condition, so didn't attempt it.

Finally I chose a spot that looked a bit drier than the rest, concluded to take a chance on being discovered and threw myself down for a nap. I was extremely nervous, though, throughout that whole day, and would scarcely get settled into a comfortable position and doze off for a few minutes when, startled by some sound in the woods, I would suddenly awake.

SUIT NEW BUT HOLE IN SHOE

Bad Teeth Like Bad Shoes Spoil Fine Dress and Good Looks

PEOPLE NEGLIGENT IN CARE OF MOUTH

Senraco Tooth Paste Powerful To Save the Teeth and Prevent Diseases

"All dressed up with a hole in his shoe," was a bit of sarcasm a girl flung at a young man friend whose engagement was new except his pained expression. Right enough, too. Elongated, man or woman, a shabby pair of teeth, would spoil the appearance of the most elegant garments ever worn.

What about the teeth? Does in all instances you please if you open your mouth exposing a decayed set of teeth your attractiveness ends right there. That's a hole in the shoe for you. This applies both to men and women. Girls, and young men, who lose half the admiration which would be directed toward you if you have bad teeth. You can't be pleasing with a mouthful of decay. You can't be healthy either. The condition of the teeth has a telling influence on other organs of the body. Bad teeth affect the intestines, stomach, heart, and even the eyes. Medical science shows that bad teeth produce unsatisfactory conditions all over the body.

With Senraco Tooth Paste at your service, a condition of decayed teeth is a thing of the past. There's no need of having a mouthful of decayed teeth. Used regularly, or a set of good teeth, almost all the mouth and throat diseases should be treated by Senraco.

Use Senraco Tooth Paste as a preventive. Ask your dentist if you should not pay all attention to your teeth. Senraco will cure Pyorrhea. If you already have it, your dentist is the doctor. Even if you are afflicted with the terrible disease Senraco will help you to get rid of it, with your dentist's assistance. But we don't want you to contract a bad habit of using Senraco. It's not a cleaning preparation. As a preventive in far better than to have to go through the trouble of a cure. Have your teeth with Senraco Tooth Paste and the latest discovery of dental science. Sample of Senraco free if you wish. Senraco Tooth Paste, Cincinnati, Ohio.

THE REGISTRATION OF GERMAN ALIEN FEMALES TO BEGIN ON JUNE 17

Plan Same as Followed in Registration of German Male Enemies; Finger-Prints to Be Taken.

The Department of Justice has announced that the registration of German alien females will begin on Monday, June 17, 1918, and continue on each day thereafter, excluding Sunday, June 23, 1918, up to and including Wednesday, June 26, 1918.

In municipalities having a population of 5,000 or over the registration will take place in the police stations in the several precincts. In towns and areas of less than 5,000 population the registration will take place in the post offices.

In general the plan of registration of German alien females is the same as that followed in the registration last February of the German alien males.

Each person who must register will be required to register her fingerprints. The fingerprinting is not to be taken as an indication that the registrant is not a law-abiding person. It is a method of identification simply. This method is observed in the military and naval service of the United States and is, as well, in general use for identification purposes.

FLY SUICIDE

(National Crop Improvement Service)

Every Spring and Summer We Lay in a New Supply of Swatters and Chase the Pesky Fly, But Here Is a Better Way

SOMEONE has left the screen door open and the dining-room is full of flies. We have just finished poring with a delicate pouch-blow Blossom on a cream bookend. With folded newspapers and wire spanners we have smashed and gnawed those flies all over the new wallpaper without adding to the artistic and sanitary effect. It is hard to get all the flies in any such manner. They will bite until you are tired and then they will come out and light on your bald head.

There is a certain and simple way, however, to get them without fail. On a plate or saucer mix 10 parts of formaldehyde in 90 parts of water and 2 parts of sugar. Place a sponge in the solution to retard evaporation. This mixture will attract flies, which die almost immediately upon drinking it. Renew the mixture every few days and your house will be kept free from flies in a highly satisfactory manner. Simple and very cheap.

MANY CAR THEFTS CHARGED TO MOUNT PLEASANT YOUTH

Said William Huffman Confessed to Disposing of Them Through Garage Man.

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, June 4.—In the arrest of William Huffman, alleged automobile thief, who was taken to York county Saturday to answer to the charge of stealing a car, the officers believe they have gotten a man whose operations have been carried on in various parts of the country. It is said Huffman is wanted in Chicago for a similar offense.

Before being taken away Huffman is said to have confessed to Chief of Police Robert Smith that he worked in conjunction with one Ralph Brindle. Cars stolen by Huffman were sold to Brindle at a nominal sum, and by Brindle disposed of for a fraction of what a car would ordinarily cost. Brindle formerly operated a garage here.

Huffman will be tried at York for the theft of a Ford car belonging to C. J. Renzel of Mount Wolf. Renzel came along with the chief of police and another officer from York and identified the stolen car. The officers told the local police that Huffman is regarded as one of the smoothest thieves abroad. The young man formerly was employed here.

Smelter in Mint Was Too Easy Making Silver Dollars to Guard Health.

"I guess I was too busy making silver dollars for Uncle Sam to watch my health," said H. B. Thomas, of 2345 Nicholas street, Philadelphia, a smelter in the United States Mint, recently.

"I have been an athlete for a good many years, playing football, baseball and basketball," he continued, "and I thought I was as immune as a fellow could get from a breakdown."

"I didn't think much about my health. As a result, I became nervous and all run-down."

"I grew tired at the least exertion and I realized I had lost some of my strength and buoyancy. I lacked ambition, and kind of pulled myself through the day."

"I knew I needed a good tonic and builder, so when a friend told me about the way this Tonic helped him, I decided to try it myself. I began using Tonic and am now taking it."

"I feel better in every way. I sleep well and feel rested and ready for work in the morning. I eat well and my food seems to thoroughly agree with me. That tired kind of feeling has disappeared, and I feel as good and as bright as a brand new silver dollar."

Tonic, the Master Medicine, is now sold here by the Conneltsville Drug Co.

Tonic can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Eason's Drug Store.—Adv.
